CNC turret drilling and tapping machines, automatic drilling and tapping machines, hydro-pneumatic drilling machines, multispindle heads, dedicated machinery

Long Gang Machinery Co., Ltd., set up by a technical expert with over 20 years of experience in the industry, specializes in designing and manufacturing hole processing machinery and special dedicated machinery: CNC turret drilling and tapping machines, automatic high-speed vertical/horizontal drilling and tapping machines, hydro-pneumatic drilling machines, multi-spindle heads, and machine tools of many other types.

The company is committed to turning out innovative machine tools using the latest production facilities and quality control systems. Its stringent, in-house quality testing and inspection plays an essential role in product optimization. The firm also does its utmost to cut production costs and enhance the efficiency of production so that it can offer superb products at reasonable prices to help customers increase their profit margins.

CNC turret drilling and tapping machines are among the many Long Gang products that are widely used and highly regarded by customers worldwide. They easily meet the toughest demands, delivering precision machining at high spindle speeds coupled with heavy-duty cutting. The machines feature a uni-body cast head/ nose, hexagon turret, and extra-durable Z-axis slide driven by high-quality Japanese roller bearings directly interacting with a brake motor. These are the first such machines in Taiwan to use Japanese roller bearings.

All of Long Gang's products incorporate transmission gears made of special steel materials that are high-frequency carburized, heat treated, and precision ground to assure standardization, durability, and stability of output. The products are ideal for the processing of parts and components for automotive, powered two-wheeler, bicycle, aeronautical, engineering, pneumatic, hydraulic, painting/ coating tool, air tool, electronic, and healthcare equipment applications.
