

Hisun Oil Presses Co., Ltd.

Automatic hydraulic machinery including rubber compression molders and steel plate, gold, badge, wood-grain sheet, vacuum, and rubber injection molders

Founded in 1980, Hisun Oil Presses Co., Ltd. designs and manufactures various types of automated hydraulic machinery including rubber compression molders as well as steel plate, gold, badge, wood-grain sheet, vacuum, and rubber injection molders in 10~2,000-ton models for a wide range of applications.

In addition to being a manufacturer of automatic hydraulic machines, Hisun is also a retailer of rubber refining mills, intensive kneaders, rubber extruders, cutters, slitters, and C-type hydraulic presses, among others. The company is committed to a zero-defect policy in the supply of quality products at reasonable prices, delivered with attentive services.

Constant R&D results in the continuous improvement of products and the development of new, innovative models with high functionality and stability. The company is proud of having developed automatic molders with butterfly mold-opening mechanisms, independent molds, and rail-type quick mold-opening mechanisms.

Designed for convenient operation, Hisun's machines incorporate programmable logic controllers (PLCs) and human-machine interface (HMI) control panels with programmable point-to-point connections rather than conventional frame relay point-to-point connections, which significantly maximizes reliability by eliminating breakdowns caused by worn connectors.

Hisun's products have not suffered any breakdowns caused by hydraulic systems since they began using the latest such system, which was introduced in 1998. The company has followed up on this achievement by continuing to focus on the development of new and improved hydraulic systems with enhanced stability and precision.

Hisun's products are sold in Taiwan as well as being exported to Hong Kong, China, Japan, Malaysia, Thailand, Indonesia, and Vietnam. The company hopes to further expand its business globally by offering the finest in products and services.
