Ceramic cartridges and pressure balance valves

Set up in 1990, Hain-Yo Enterprises Co., Ltd. is one of a handful makers of world-caliber pressure balance valves and precision ceramic cartridges in Taiwan.

Already ISO 9002 and ISO 9001 certified in 1999, the maker is committed to honesty, accountability, enthusiasm, and innovation, supplying high-quality, reasonably priced products.

The company's R&D team continually develops improved, durable, and practical products, always enhancing precision and structural design, which, coupled with cutting-edge know-how, seasoned staff and the latest automated production lines, enable it to turn out quality products.

The maker's 42mm, low-torque ceramic cartridges feature stainless-steel-reinforced plate and high-grade ceramic disc for longer lifespan, as well as a durable, adjustable wear-resistant ring for better safety. The cartridge has three independent inlet seals to prevent water leakage, and also has inlet check valves, one each for hot and cold water, to prevent backflow and cross-flow, thus safely keeping users from being scalded due to water temperatures fully complying with safety standards in Australia, the USA, the UK, and New Zealand.

The ceramic cartridges use uni-block plastic injection parts for consistent quality, and are assembled via automation for standardization. Each item has to pass stringent quality control and pre-shipment tests to assure zero defect, including tests for air-pressure leakage, cycle, breaking, high temperature, high pressure, and intermittent impact.
